Carey Gabay Scholarship Program provides financial assistance to five incoming SUNY State-operated campus students who exemplify Carey's commitment to social justice, leadership, and mentoring, as well as his personal story of succeeding academically despite an economically disadvantaged background. Carey grew up living in public housing and attending public school in the Bronx, New York. After a successful high school career, he went on to graduate from Harvard University and Harvard Law School. He has long been committed to public service and giving back. While at Harvard University, he ran to become the president of his undergraduate student body. In recent years, he worked tirelessly in public service, first as an Assistant Counsel to New York Governor Andrew Cuomo and more recently as First Deputy Counsel for the Empire State Development Corporation. The Carey Gabay Scholarship Program will annually award full cost-of-attendance scholarships to five students to attend a State University of New York State-operated campus. These scholarships will cover all costs of attendance, including tuition, room and board, college fees, books and supplies, and transportation and personal expenses. These awards will be targeted to students who – like Carey – achieved academic excellence despite an economically disadvantaged background. For more information visit suny.edu.
